TITLE:

UNITY

DATE OF COMPLETION:

APRIL 2020

STATEMENT:

A Just World means to me, a place where diversity thrives and unifies anyone living in it. I wanted to evoke a feeling of unity so I decided to make a collage of all my photography. All my pictures contained models who are part of a minority group to showcase that in a just world minorities are connected and most importantly equal. This collage is multiple pictures connected to make one bigger piece of art; a just world would be a place where all different kinds of people come together to make the world a balanced place.

To whom it may concern:

Francisco "Fran" Aguilar Narvaes is an impressive person and someone who I believe will be an incredible college student. Like most college students, scholarship support will be helpful if provided. I encourage you to offer this scholarship to Fran. He is artistic, creative, personable, passionate, and dependable.

I first met Fran when he and my son were friends in middle school. I found Fran to be considerate, personable and social. As he transitioned to high school and I began to work with him, I began to appreciate him as a student. Fran is ranked in the top 25% of his senior class. He has taken just about every honors class available, in addition to several AP and Dual Enrollment courses. Fran takes pride in his academics and strives to excel. Fran is bilingual, enabling him to comfortably communicate in English and Spanish. His greatest strength is his creativity. He is passionate about art, especially graphic design.

Throughout high school Fran has been involved in the fabric of our school. He has been an active member and supporter of the Gay-Straight Alliance, acted in a school production, and serves as historian of the Green Club. Fran has participated in art shows through the school and community. I attended one last spring and was impressed by the beautiful work created by Fran and his classmates.

I am confident in Francisco Aguilar Narvaez succeeding in college. I enthusiastically endorse his application for this scholarship.

Sincerely,

Joel D. Simon, Ed.D.

Financial Letter

My parents constantly work to provide what is best for me. My mom working at a gas station and my dad working in a chicken factory. They both work throughout the week relentlessly. I never understood how much effort they put in, until I started working. While my parents try their hardest, during my sophomore year money became an issue. This was the year I decided to get my first job to pay for the things I wanted and to take pressure off. The time I spent working is when it really hit me on how I took things for granted. Half of my pay checks were saved and the other were left for me to spend. This being a minimum wage job, I realized the importance of working to get above minimum wage. Throughout that year my parents found stable jobs and ended up where they are now. While money is less of an issue now it certainly cannot cover college tuition. I promised my parents to get a higher education—as I am first generation. Having little help on applying to colleges I tried my hardest on making sure everything was handled. Luckily my hard-work paid off and I got accepted into all my schools. With this came a difficult choice of picking what is not only affordable but also would give me the best opportunities. The choice being FIT, I realized that my finances would have to be sorted out to make sure everything would sail smoothly. This is why I made sure to apply to all opportunities given—leading me to this wonderful opportunity. I want to be able to make my parents proud and make sure there are no worries along the way.
